Union Medical Healthcare Extends Cooling-off Period to 14 Days to Protect Customers' Interests

Aiming to Raise the Standards of Hong Kong's Medical Industry to the Highest in Asia Pacific

(3 January 2019, Hong Kong) Union Medical Healthcare Limited ("Union Medical Healthcare" or the "Company", which together with its subsidiaries, is referred to as the "Group", SEHK stock code: 2138), a leading integrated medical group in Hong Kong, is pleased to announce that it has extended the cooling-off period from 7 days to 14 days, starting from 1 January 2019, at the operations under four of its brands, namely DR REBORN, re:HEALTH, Young Aesthetics and Swissline. The Group pioneered this consumer protection practice five years ago with a 7-day cooling-off period.

Mr. Eddy Tang, Chairman, Executive Director and Chief Executive Officer of Union Medical Healthcare, said, "Union Medical Healthcare is committed to applying the highest industry standards to its services so it has extended the cooling-off period to 14 days. This will allow customers enough time for purchase decision, thus helping enhance their confidence in our brands. As an industry leader, the Group runs its business with professionalism and in compliance with laws and regulations. It implements internal control and risk management measures comprehensively and professionally to protect the interests of its customers in the hope of enhancing the professional standards of Hong Kong's medical and beauty industry. This can help to turn the city into a hub of medical, healthcare and beauty industry in Asia Pacific."
